

Recipe for Tuna training treats

Speaking of training; here is a great recipe to help motivate your dog! Tuna or Sardine treats! These are so easy to make (oven or microwave) & different to anything you'll buy for your dog so a real novelty for training. The recipe is from Honey at the German Shepherd club of WA. If you remember Honey kindly gave us permission to share the recipe for sunshine liver brownies some time ago! That recipe is great but this one is even easier to make.

You will need;

1 large tin of tuna in spring water (or 3 tins of sardines)

1 cup of flour

1 cup of grated cheese

1 egg

Mix all ingredients together in a bowl (including the spring water with the tuna). Spread the mixture on a foil lined biscuit tray and bake for 20 minutes at 180 degrees Celsius.

Alternatively you can spread the mixture on a large, oiled microwave safe plate (I just use the microwave plate) and microwave on high for 7-9 minutes. The time will vary with your microwave but I don't think your dog will be too fussy. Just remember, no foil in the microwave, cut your treats up into small pieces suitable for training and store the treats in the fridge. I freeze my treats in to portion size training bags (I prefer to mix 2 or 3 different types of treats and freeze them ready to go). I thaw in the fridge the night before training.
